High School Students Get Diplomas

Largest Class In History of Institution is Awarded Certificates In Program

Graduating exercises of Montevallo High School, held at Palmer Hall Tuesday morning, culminated a most successful year for this institution, and sent out to a promising and hopeful future the largest class in the history of the school.

Elizabeth Seale rendered the salutatory for the class. Her subject was "Education for Citizenship." The valedictory address for the class was by Geraldine Williams on the subject, "Education for Ethical Character." These numbers were rendered in a manner that evidenced the high scholarship attainments of these outstanding students.

The commencement address, "Education and World Peace," was made by Mr. Charles G. Dobbins, executive secretary of Alabama College. The words of Mr. Dobbins were well measured for this occasion, and thoroughly interpretative of the best thought of the day upon the correlation of educational ideals with the vastly important hope for peace in the world and good will among men.

Honors were awarded by Dr. M. L. Orr. Diplomas were given out by Principal W. F. Tidwell. Invocation was by Rev. A. B. Baxley, with benediction by Rev. O. R. Burns.

It was a noteworthy array of the promising young manhood and womanhood of Montevallo community who received their high school diplomas upon this occasion and stepped out to the challenge of broader opportunities of life.

Third Grade Picnic At Gravlee Place

The Third Grade of the Elementary School, with their teacher, Miss Waurene Jones, and practice teachers, Miss Mabel Coley, Miss Madge Salter, and Miss Elsie Adams, enjoyed a picnic last Thursday at Mr. Gravlee's farm. This group was taken down there about 9 o'clock on Mr. Canant's bus. The creek was the main attraction for most of the youngsters, while others played ball and rode bicycles. At noon a bountiful lunch was spread. Cold drinks were served with the lunch. The afternoon passed too rapidly with its many interesting games. Pictures were made of the group, and at 2 o'clock they had to leave. Mrs. Gravlee, Mr. Gravlee, and Mr. Dick Hawkins did many things during the day for the pleasure of this group of children.

This is the second picnic this group has enjoyed there this spring. These youngsters are very fortunate in having Mrs. Gravlee for their Grade Mother.

Peak Is Reached For Enrollment

More Dormitory and Classroom Space Needed to Accommodate More Students

Enrollment at Alabama College for the regular session just ended having reached a total of 842, it is out of the question to accommodate any materially increased number of students under present limitations of administrative policy and housing facilities according to the report of President A. F. Harman to the board of trustees in session here Friday afternoon.

This statement was made in connection with Dr. Harman's report on increased student enrollment, and the need for additional dormitory and classroom buildings.

The report revealed 203 students were able to earn a part of their college expense money. Their total earnings for the year was $25,304.67.

Dr. Harman pointed out the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools in annual session in April selected Montevallo High School, the Training School of Alabama College for the preparation of high school teachers, as one of the 17 schools in the South for experimentation in curriculum revision and for demonstration of the more effective types of secondary school instruction.

The president noted also a successful year in speech activities, including the work of a strong debating team and the winning of a national championship in oratory by Miss Ellen Farish, of Thomaston.

Dr. Harman paid tribute to two members of the staff who died during the last year—Mrs. Nora Leeper Reynolds and Mrs. Mary E. Harris, both veteran house directors.

Leaves of absence for the coming year were recommended for Miss Frances K. Lamar, Mrs. Margaret Coyle, Miss Mary Ambler, Miss Bertie McGee, and Mrs. Louise Coleman.

College Exercises Colorful Events

Season Climaxed By Graduation Program On Monday, May 30

The commencement season at Montevallo brought a series of many happy incidents for students, faculty, friends, and many visitors from all parts of Alabama. Climax of this gala period of the year was the graduating exercises Monday morning, May 30, at Palmer Hall when President A. F. Harman made the presentation of certificates and conferred degrees upon the graduating class of 1938 of Alabama College.

The annual meeting of the Board of Trustees of the college, the first event of the commencement program, was held last Friday. At this time president Harman rendered his resume of the work of the closing year. High point of this report was the impressive fact that Alabama College cannot meet the demands made upon it by the young women of Alabama unless and until it can have a great expansion in its facilities.

At 8 o'clock Friday night the reception for Governor and Mrs. Bibb Graves and the graduating class provided one of the most colorful social events of the season.

Saturday, May 28, brought the Class Day exercises. In this arrangement the graduating class presented the Scrapbook of 1938, from page one, when, as freshmen they took the stage; to page two, when, as Sophomores, they set a precedent; through page three, when as Juniors they had their promenade to an a la Goddard serenade; and concluding with page four, when, to Seniority, they relinquished their claim.

Back to the serious side of commencement, Sunday was given to the Baccalaureate Exercises. The able address of Rev. Charles R. Bell, of Anniston, upon this occasion, was broadcast over Station WAPI, to all the world, direct from Palmer Hall.

The Y. W. C. A. rendered Vesper service program Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Speaker for this program was Dr. Leslie Blanchard, Dean of Hollins College, Hollins, Virginia.

At the final program, graduating exercises Monday morning, the address was made by Judge Florence E. Allen, eminent woman jurist, of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, Cleveland, Ohio. Followed, the presentation of certificates and degrees by President A. F. Harman. Soon thereafter, hasty goodbyes were said, last minute autographs were completed, and the depopulation of the campus was in order. By nightfall Alabama College began to resemble the deserted village, as students hurried away home, and faculty members began their ways to summer occupations, vacationing, and new voyages of discovery.

NOTICE!

Miss Marion Mallory Becomes Bride Of Mr. Jack Baldwin

A wedding of much interest to her many friends in Montevallo was that of Miss Marion Mallory to Mr. Jack Baldwin of St. Louis, Mo., which occurred May 20, at the First Baptist Church in Alexander City, Dr. J. Raymond Stuckey officiated with a ring ceremony before a large assembly of friends and relatives.

Tall standards of white gladioli and fern decorated the altar. Mrs. J. Sanford Mullins, organist, and Sam Bradshaw, Jr., soloist, presented a very impressive program of nuptial music.

Her only attendant was her sister, Mrs. J. Ellis Gunn, who wore pink tucked chiffon, fashioned with a V neck and flared skirt. Mrs. Gunn's hat was a Parisian blue straw sailor with a cluster of field flowers at the front. Other accessories were of the same shade of blue. Her bouquet was of pink rose buds and delphinium tied with a royal blue ribbon.

Dressed in hyacinth blue marquisette made with square neck line, puffed sleeves, and flared skirt, the bride entered with her father. Her hat was an off-the-face style of navy straw with a short veil, having bands of contrasting colors. Her accessories were also of navy. She carried white roses and lilies of the valley tied with a large bow of white satin ribbon.

The groom's best man was Dan Mandery of Washington, S. D.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Gunn entertained for the out of town friends and relatives and the bride and groom at a breakfast immediately following the wedding at their home on Circle Drive.

White gladioli and other cut flowers were used in decorating the home. A wedding cake topped with a large bouquet of pulled candy, calla lilies tied with a big bow and showered with lilies of the valley took a prominent place on the bride's table in the dining room. Other appointments were snapdragons, sweet peas, and gypsophila arranged in crystal bowls.

Mrs. Gunn was assisted in serving by Mesdames E. W. Gunn, I. E. Gunn, R. W. Worthy, Jr., and A. H. Ballard.

Mrs. Baldwin is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Mallory, of Alexander City. For a number of years she was secretary to the president of Alabama College, where she made a host of friends, taking a leading role in the social life of the college and town. Later she accepted a position with the Georgia Power Company of Atlanta, which she has held for several years.

Receiving his education at the University of South Carolina, Mr. Baldwin is now connected with the Allied Stores Utilities of St. Louis, Mo.

AAA MAKING FINAL COTTON ALLOTMENTS

Auburn, Ala.—Final apportionment of Alabama's cotton acreage under the 1938 program is expected to be completed within the next two weeks, states Bernard L. Collins, acting administrator of the AAA until the arrival of A. W. Jones on May 15. The state AAA office is working at top speed in making allotments to producers who did not grow cotton in 1935, 1936, or 1937 but who plan to grow a crop this year.

The complete allotted cotton acreage of the state will be announced as soon as these allotments are made, he says, since individual allotments have already been released for those producers who grew cotton in the three previous years and had worksheets on file in the county offices. A state acreage reserve has been held out to take care of the new cotton growers but this reserve will not be broken down to counties until all worksheets for these farms are in the state office.

Sheriffs are now allowed to succeed themselves in Alabama. By a vote of 95,848 to 81,066 an amendment to the state constitution was adopted on May 3rd. At the same time another amendment was adopted which permits Limestone County, on majority vote, to levy a special one mill tax for malaria control. This amendment was adopted by a vote of 111,889 to 47,764.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin A. Mallory of New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Mallory and daughter, Martha Evelyn, of Flat Creek; Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Twing and daughter, Martha, of Birmingham; Miss Nell Walker of Chattanooga; Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Phillips and son, A. G., Jr., of Opelika; Mr. Dan Mandery, of Washington, S. D.; and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Leighton, of St. Louis, were among the out of town guests for the wedding.

Among the courtesies given for the bride preceding the marriage was a three course luncheon given by Mrs. W. D. Graves, Jr.

A bridal motif was used in the decoration of the rooms and the dining table. The bride's table was centered with sweet peas and baby breath. The guests included Mrs. W. D. Graves, Sr., Mrs. Omer McGhee, Miss Nell Walker, Mrs. N. D. Nolen, Mrs. A. J. Nolen, Mrs. G. P. Nolen, Miss Ruby Worthy, Mrs. Ellis Gunn, Mrs. R. W. Worthy, Jr., Mrs. Melvin Mallory, Mrs. Ewell Gunn, Mrs. T. E. Mallory, Mrs. W. D. Twing, Mrs. I. E. Gunn, and Mrs. T. W. Caley.

Miss Mary Will Maxwell assisted the hostess in entertaining. A lovely gift was presented the honor guest.

Mrs. I. E. Gunn and Mrs. W. R. Worthy Jr. were joint hostesses to the bridal party, relatives and out of town guests after the rehearsal of the wedding plans.

Mrs. Baldwin will travel with her husband about a year, his work taking him to most of the southern and northern states. The couple will make their future home in St. Louis, Mo.

LATE COTTON NEEDS NITRATE APPLICATION

Auburn, Ala.—With most of the cotton of Alabama two weeks late and a great deal of it later than that, it is very important that farmers do everything in their power to give this crop an extra growth emphasizes J. C. Lowery, agronomist of the Alabama Extension Service.

Mr. Lowery says that with both cotton and corn later than usual it would be a good investment for the farmers to apply generous applications of nitrate to these plants so that this extra push in growth will make up the delay to a great extent.

"The heavy rains in April put both these crops behind last year's crops from ten days to two weeks and some farmers have had to replant because the cotton did not come up to a good stand or because cutworms or something else ruined the stand after it did come up," he says. "These crops will be more than two weeks late."

The side dressing of nitrate of soda will increase the growth of both cotton and corn. Experiments show that the best results are obtained when the nitrate is applied about 40 days after planting. In cotton this will be after chopping and before blooms begin to be general over the field. Corn will be about knee high at this time. If cotton and corn follow a winter legume, it is not necessary to side dress with nitrate. From 100 to 200 pounds of nitrate of soda, depending upon the amount of other commercial fertilizer used, should be applied.

Dry weather and boll weevils and wet weather and boll weevils can do a lot of damage to late cotton, Mr. Lowery states.

SPECIALIST GIVES WORKSTOCK RATIONS

Auburn, Ala.—A good livestock feeding rule for Alabama farmers is to feed more roughage and less grain to idle animals and more grain and less roughage to animals at hard work, says Dr. R. S. Sugg, livestock specialist, Alabama Extension Service.

Another good rule for the farmer to follow is to give heavy working horses and mules about one and one-half pounds of grain and one pound of roughage for each one hundred pounds of live weight. The roughage should be fed at night and the grain fed in either two or three feeds, says Dr. Sugg.

He lists the following rations for best results for heavy work (1,000-pound animal): No. 1—7 pounds of corn, 7 pounds oats, and 10 pounds hay; No. 2—12 pounds corn, 2 pounds cottonseed meal, and 10 pounds hay; No. 3—15 pounds of ground ear corn, 2 pounds cottonseed meal, and 10 pounds hay.

For light work a 1,000 pound animal should get one of the following rations: No. 1—4 pounds corn, 4 pounds oats, 12 pounds hay; No. 2—6 pounds corn, 1 pound cottonseed meal, 12 pounds hay; No. 3—10 pounds ground ear corn, 1 pound cottonseed meal, and 12 pounds hay.

When work animals are idle they should be allowed to run in a good pasture or fed 15 to 20 pounds of hay and about five pounds of grain mixture, according to Dr. Sugg. In feeding cottonseed meal farmers should be sure it is free of lumps and molds. The meal should be started by feeding about one-fourth pound per day and increasing it up to two pounds gradually.

The workstock clinic was conducted by farmers and County Agent J. A. Medlock in cooperation with local veterinarians and the Veterinary Department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

AUGUST 1 TO 6 DATES FOR FARMERS' WEEK

Auburn, Ala.—One of the most outstanding programs from the recreational and educational standpoint ever held is being worked out for hundreds of Alabama farmers and farm women who will gather at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute August 1 to 6, for the 1938 Farmers and Homemakers Week, announces P. O. Davis, director of the Alabama Extension Service.

As part of the educational and recreational program, Director Davis says that state and national agricultural leaders will be present to address the farm people. Community singing, so popular in the past, will be continued this year as will the sections or classes in livestock, landscaping, poultry, forestry, and other phases of agriculture in which the farm people are interested.

The latest facts on farming and homemaking gathered through experiments of the Alabama Experiment Station will be given the farm men and women, the director states. In addition, tours will be conducted so that the group may see what is being done to improve Alabama crops and farm practices.

All persons attending Farmers and Homemakers Week will be housed in cottages of the state camp on the campus at Auburn. Assemblies for speakers and singing will be in the Assembly Hall of the camp.

SAVE VITAMINS SPECIALIST ADVISES

Auburn, Ala.—The method of canning affects the vitamin content of the product to a great extent, says Miss Lavada Curtis, food preservation specialist of the Alabama Extension Service, in advising Alabama women to do everything possible in their canning to insure maximum food values.

With the exception of Vitamin C there should be no serious loss during the canning process. In order to preserve all vitamins possible the food should be canned soon after it is gathered and all preserving steps carried through rapidly. Precooking the food for a short time, packing them hot and processing them in containers help to preserve the vitamin content. To preserve minerals, fill the containers with liquid in which product was precooked, she says.

WOMEN EARN $50,000 THROUGH HANDICRAFT

Auburn, Ala.—During the past five years Alabama home demonstration club women have received more than $50,000 in cash for handicraft articles which they have made in their spare time, says Miss Dorothy Dean, clothing and handicraft specialist of the Alabama Extension Service.

Miss Dean states that the Alabama women have attained a high standard of workmanship in their handicraft and as a result have been invited to send an exhibit of these articles to London next year for the Triennial Conference of the Associated Country Women of the World. During their spare time these women make exquisite feather fans, baskets, quilts, bedspreads, leather goods, handkerchiefs, luncheon sets, corn shuck dolls, and many other articles.

RUFFIN RECOMMENDS CUTWORM POISONING

Auburn, Ala.—Cutworms, which have been noted recently in large numbers all over Alabama doing serious damage to hay and young cotton, can be controlled with poisoned bran mash, W. A. Ruffin, entomologist and horticulturist of the Alabama Extension Service advises.

Mr. Ruffin says the worms have been doing considerable damage to alfalfa and to the stands of young cotton. They feed at night and in the day time can be found buried in the soil or under leaves, hay or other litter on the ground. They are now going into the pupal stage and the first generation will probably cease feeding soon. Damage of the second generation cannot be estimated at the present time, he states.

The poisoned mash can be made by mixing thoroughly two pounds of arsenic of lead with 20 pounds of wheat bran and moistening the mixture with sweetened water. Two quarts of syrup and three and a half gallons of water will be sufficient for the above mixture.

The poisoned bait should be broadcast over the infested area late in the afternoon, at the rate of 10-20 pounds per acre to be effective. Where the stand of cotton has been seriously damaged it will pay the farmer to replant, Mr. Ruffin believes.

Further information can be obtained from the county agent.

During the month of April Alabama collected gasoline taxes to the amount of $1,141,149.17. Of this amount each county will receive approximately $8,400.00.

The Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation has purchased 639 tons of cabbage in Alabama within the last few weeks and will begin in a short time to purchase surplus early Irish potatoes, the Agricultural Adjustment Administration has announced.

Social Club of Siluria Holds Meeting

The Social Club of Siluria and surrounding communities entertained recently with a banquet to celebrate the end of a successful year of club work.

The banquet was held in a local cafe which was turned over to the club for that evening. The tables were arranged so as to make one cozy T-shaped table in the center of the room. Up the center of the table was green ivy with white flowers placed in among it. All over the room were beautiful vases of spring flowers. White candles which were placed at intervals along the table were lighted as the club members arrived. When all were seated the vice president, Mrs. E. W. Rutledge, arose and made a short talk introducing the president, Mrs. Fred Hillman, who gave a toast to the successful continuation of the club. Then the husbands were introduced around the table and some of them made short talks.

At this time a four course chicken dinner was served and music was enjoyed by the group.

After dinner games of bingo were played with small prizes given to the winners. The banquet was greatly enjoyed by all and another one is a pleasant anticipation of next spring.

Miss Willie Ellington, formerly of Siluria, is seriously ill at the home of her sister, Mrs. Mary Thomas, of Birmingham.

In spite of the heavy rain and frost damage during the first half of April, crop prospects for Alabama are generally to be considered above the average, announces the Alabama Cooperative Crop Reporting Service. Since the middle of April conditions have been almost ideal and tremendous progress has been made both in farm work and crop development.

POTATO STORAGE SUGGESTIONS GIVEN

Auburn, Ala.—With a spring and fall crop of Irish potatoes and with proper storage of these potatoes the farm family may have home-grown potatoes all through the year, states L. M. Ware, head of the horticultural department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Mr. Ware says there are several inexpensive ways of storing Irish potatoes during the summer. A cool darkened cellar makes an ideal place of storage. It is well to leave the potatoes in some kind of container holding about one or two bushels and be sure that the container is not resting directly on the ground or on the concrete.

Another very simple and fairly satisfactory way of storing potatoes during the summer, which is available to any farmer, consists of storing in the shade of a rather dense tree. A layer of straw is placed on the ground, a small pile of potatoes—four or five bushels—placed on the straw, and then the pile is covered with more straw. Dirt must not be used to cover piles as with winter storage of sweet potatoes. A trench dug around the area and a little tin or composition roofing to shed the water complete the job. Potatoes kept in this way may be used for the fall crop of seed potatoes if the Triumph variety is being grown, according to the horticulturist.

Second Primary Is Next Tuesday

Only Two Candidates in Run-Off
For State Office; Two County
Races to be Decided

Next Tuesday, June 14, is election day again, the time at which voters will settle all arguments which are hanging over from the first primary of May 3.

Since Judge Sparks declined to run it off with Frank Dixon, and some of the other state candidates likewise withdrew in favor of the high man, there is not much of interest to be settled in the state races.

As a matter of fact, there are only two candidates for state office in the run-off next Tuesday—Arthur Heustess and Clint Harrison, for Associate Member of the Public Service Commission.

Our own Senatorial race between Dr. Hines and Karl Harrison will interest the voters of the three counties in the district, Autauga, Chilton and Shelby.

There is the race for County Treasurer to be decided between R. Frank Lyon and Henry Naish; and down here in the second district we will have to choose between Red Mahan and Sam Tatum for member of the County Board of Revenue.

Special Notice

Mrs. McMeans is in Montevallo visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Johnson. She has Miss Hardy with her as guest. Mrs. Ratchford is here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. McConaughy.

These ladies form a group of talented artists whom it will be a rare treat to hear upon this occasion next Sunday.

Alabama Fourth In Accidental Deaths

Alabama is tied with North Carolina for fourth place among the states of the Union on the basis of the ratio of accidental deaths to total population, as shown on a safety map prepared by the National Safety Council, in Chicago, a copy of which has been received by the State Department of Health.

This map, based on accident mortality reports obtained from state health departments, shows Alabama's and North Carolina's accident death rate as 65 per 100,000 population. The three states represented as having lower rates are Arkansas, with a rate of 56.2 per 100,000 population, Rhode Island, with a rate of 59.3 per 100,000 population, and Maine, with a rate of 62.3 per 100,000 population.

This state is one represented in white on the map, indicating that the accident death rate for each of these is less than 80 per 100,000 population. Thirteen states, shown in green on the map, are declared to have accident death rates between 80 and 99.9 per 100,000 population, while the other 16 states, shown in black are represented as having rates of 100 or more accidental deaths for every 100,000 population.

Dr. E. G. Givhan Local Physician Died Last Friday

Practiced Medicine Successfully

Here For Forty-one

Years

Dr. Edgar Gilmore Givhan, age 67 years, died last Friday morning, June 3, at his home in Montevallo. He had been in ill health for several weeks prior to his death.

Funeral services were held at the Montevallo Baptist Church Saturday morning, conducted by Rev. Fred B. Pearson and Rev. Virgil Hawkins, of Birmingham. Burial was in Montevallo cemetery, with Rogan in charge. Out of respect for this distinguished Montevallo citizen, and in expression of the high regard in which he was held by all of his neighbors, the business houses of the town were closed for one hour during his funeral.

Dr. Givhan was the son of a doctor of great prominence in central Alabama who spent many years in the practice of his profession in Chilton County. He was born at Jemison, where he spent his boyhood days. His medical education was obtained at the old Mobile Medical College after he had graduated at Howard College.

Forty-one years ago he came to Montevallo and began the practice of medicine. He was the first college physician at what is now Alabama College. For many years he was local surgeon for the Southern Railway. He was a life counselor of the State Medical Association. Always active in professional affairs, he has been a leader in the Shelby County Medical Society.

He was a member of Central Lodge No. 70, A. F. & A. M., a deacon in the Baptist Church, and had been chairman of the finance committee of Montevallo Baptist Church for many years.

Soon after coming to Montevallo Dr. Givhan married Miss Lena Peterson, whose father, Dr. Francis Peterson, was the second president of Alabama College. Besides his widow, he is survived by two sons, Dr. E. G. Givhan, Jr., of Birmingham, and Mr. F. P. Givhan, of Montevallo.

Dr. Givhan enjoyed the highest esteem among a wide acquaintance of friends throughout Central Alabama. He was prominently identified with business interests in this section.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

DR. E. G. GIVHAN

In taking away Dr. E. G. Givhan, death has removed from Montevallo one of the pillars of our community—a pillar of strength and character that has been for a generation one of the chief supports of our business activity and civic life.

Dr. Givhan was a strong individual. He charted his course in the early years of his life—those years when there was little of collectivism in anything. Individual strength, everlasting determination, hard work, and personal independence were the only avenues that offered security and usefulness. These were adopted by Dr. Givhan, a young physician, and he developed in them to a marked degree.

In his practice he made contacts widely throughout this section of Alabama. Those contacts grew into a broad circle of staunch and trusting friends who found in Dr. Givhan a man whom they could rely upon. He was the anchor that has kept many a wavering one moored safely through turbulent storms.

There are no characters in the world that are more loved and honored—and perhaps abused—than the good old-time family doctor.

Such a character has been Dr. Givhan in the truest sense.

One by one they are dropping off, and there are none coming along to take their places. Certainly it is a changed world that makes no place in its existence for a continuation of the kind of men who have filled that useful, busy and sacrificing role of the old country doctor of the past.

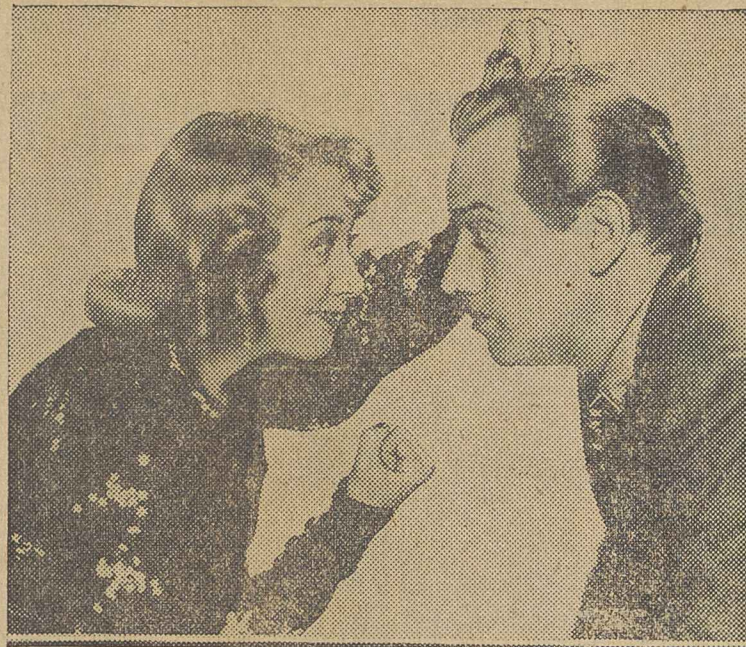

The name of Dr. Givhan is so graven upon the history of Montevallo that it will not be erased by time in the span of those now living.

Terraces require considerable care and attention always but especially during the first year before the loose soil has had time to become thoroughly settled, cautions S. R. Doughty, soil conservation specialist of the Alabama Extension Service. Neglect this important duty and aggravated soil losses will result in the future, he says.

Cutworm damage to young cotton becomes more general and more serious as reports come in from Bullock, Chilton, Elmore, Autauga, Chambers, Lee, Macon, Russell, and Tallapoosa Counties that the worms are damaging thousands of acres of young cotton and some farmers have had to plow up and replant, states W. A. Ruffin, extension entomologist, Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Alabama is sending many thousands of dollars out of the state for dairy products that can be produced in Alabama, believes F. W. Burns, livestock specialist of the Alabama Extension Service. Sweet cream for ice cream making, cream for butter making, milk for cheese and condensing purposes are examples of markets available in many Alabama counties.

Mr. William Doxey of Miami was the guest of Mrs. Sallie Latham Sunday.

LOVE IS . . . NEWS*"Always A Woman" is Added To Cockeyed Comedy Cycle

"There's Always a Woman," Columbia's current contribution to the cockeyed comedy cycle comprising "The Awful Truth," "Theodora Goes Wild" and "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," will be on view at the Strand Theatre Sunday and Monday, June 12-13.

Co-starred in this gay new romantic comedy is the scream-team of Melvyn Douglas and Joan Blondell, appearing together for the first time. Douglas won his comedy spurs in "Theodora Goes Wild" and repeated in "I Met Him in Paris" and "I'll Take Romance." Miss Blondell has been garnering laughs from the screen for many years with most recent appearances in "The Perfect Specimen" and "Stand-in."

A thin thread of mystery weaves through the story of "There's Always a Woman," which was directed by Alexander Hall from Gladys Lehman's screen adaptation of Wilson Collison's popular magazine story.

The plot, briefly, concerns the mad antics of a bewildering young blonde wife who starts out to prove to her detective-husband that she, too, can be a Sherlockian sleuth. This wild-eyed situation arises when Douglas bequeaths his defunct private detective agency to his spirited wife and returns to his former post with the District Attorney.

Soon afterwards a murder occurs in which friend husband finds his investigations considerably hampered by the counter-moves made by his wife, representing the accused. Affairs for the harassed Douglas reach such a state that he must obtain a warrant to search his own home for an incriminating letter obtained by Joan and wanted by the police.

Mary Astor and Frances Drake are prominently featured in the supporting cast, which includes Robert Paige, Jerome Cowan and Thurston Hall.

Farmers Are Warned About Hog Diseases

Auburn, Ala.—This year's heavy rainfall, followed by warm weather, has created a serious threat of infectious enteritis, or "necro," outbreaks in hogs, and farmers are being warned to take precautions against the disease, state livestock health authorities have announced.

"Hogs should be moved out of old, muddy lots and placed on clean pasture," advises Dr. I. S. McAdory, state veterinarian. "The organisms which cause enteritis multiply rapidly in damp, warm weather, and an entire herd of hogs may become infected with the disease in a short time. The death rate may be very high; and pigs which do recover may remain unthrifty the rest of their lives."

Owners are also warned against peddlers of so-called "cures" for necro, or necrotic enteritis. "The best steps against the disease are to get hogs onto clean ground as quickly as possible and rely on the advice of a veterinarian as to what further measures may be taken."

Precautions in introducing feeder hogs into a herd are also suggested, as they may be the carriers of necro, cholera, or other diseases.

ARTHUR HEUSTESS

Associate Public Service Commissioner

WHAT Alabama wants today is a progressive leadership in ALL DEPARTMENTS of state government. In no uncertain terms, the voters voiced that wish in the May primaries.

ARTHUR HEUSTESS, candidate for Associate Commissioner of Public Service, is young, active, vigorous, progressive. He commands the complete confidence of leaders of the new regime in state affairs. He will wholeheartedly support the new administration of Alabama's government. He will serve you, loyally and well.

Such a candidate with such a viewpoint can do far more than his opponent—an appointee of the Graves administration.

"Hon. Hugh White, President of Alabama Public Service Commission, is actively supporting Heustess, so is Walter C. Givhan."

Pd. Pol. Adv. by Heustess Campaign Com.

She Knows Only Cats Can See Well In The Dark

"SHE also knows that persons with glass eyes can't even see in the daytime. She knows, too, and any optical specialist will tell you this is true, that even with the finest lenses for your eyes you cannot see well if you do not have enough light.

"She is one of my Company's home lighting specialists. When she comes to your door, invite her in. She has an interesting story to tell you about light and its relationship to your eyes and your comfort and your child's grades in school. You will appreciate having talked to her, because you will have learned that with electricity as cheap as it is in Alabama, there is no reason why you should endanger the two most precious organs of the body—the eyes—by trying to see in poor light."

NON-DEPLETING LEGUMES BETTER DEPLETING CROPS

Auburn, Ala.—Under the 1938 AAA program Alabama farmers may not only produce food and feed on the soil-depleting acreage allotment of their farms, but they also have the opportunity to increase the supply of food and feed for home use by growing a number of non-depleting food and feed crops on their diverted acres, says A. W. Jones, administrative officer in charge of AAA activities in Alabama.

Mr. Jones says many producers in the state find they get more feed out of leguminous crops, such as soybeans and cowpeas for hay and peanuts for hogging, than they can get out of soil-depleting crops of the same acreage. A primary aim of the program is soil building and some of the diverted acres must be in non-depleting crops. The legumes will meet that requirement and at the same time be supplying good feed.

The Farm Products Marketing Committee of the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce got off to a good start recently with 48 members present at the first meeting in Montgomery. The committee, headed by J. C. Hodges and Luther Fuller, Birmingham, hoped to provide good year-round cash markets for Alabama-grown farm, orchard, and garden products, and thereby bring up the income and buying power of agriculture.

BOAT RESERVATIONS

The "early bird catches the worm" proverb will apply to deep sea anglers planning to attend the 10th annual Alabama Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo in lower Mobile Bay this year, with reference to boat reservations. The rodeo association has a boat committee, headed by John I. Morrill, Box 908, Mobile, which obtains suitable fishing boats for contestants. ## Miss Anne Watson Offers Points To Observe In Canning Vegetables

The pressure cooker is solving many problems of the women of Shelby County as they go about canning beans and carrots during this season, says Anne Watson, home demonstration agent. The cooker makes it possible to process cans of this food at correct temperatures and avoid a great deal of spoilage. Miss Watson says the following recommendations for canning carrots and beans have been given by Miss Lavada Curtis, food preservation specialist of the Alabama Extension Service.

The beans should be graded for color, size and degree of maturity. Wash thoroughly, string and cut in pieces of desired size. Add boiling water to cover, simmer uncovered for about five minutes or until beans are wilted and will bend without breaking. Pack in glass jars; add seasoning and cover with boiling liquid in which the beans were cooked. Remove air bubbles.

Process in a pressure canner at 10 pounds pressure and 240 degrees F. Pint jars and No. 3 tin cans should be processed for 30 minutes. Number 2 cans, 25 minutes; and quart jars for 35 minutes.

Only young, tender carrots should be canned. Wash, grade, and boil for five minutes. Remove skin and pack in jars. An attractive pack may be made by placing whole carrots parallel with the sides of the jar, alternating them so that every other carrot is placed stem-end up while those between have the stem-end down. Carrots more than three-fourths of an inch in diameter should be diced or sliced. Add one teaspoon salt to a quart. Cover with boiling water and remove air bubbles. Seal tin cans at a temperature of not less than 160 degrees F. Process in a pressure canner at 10 pounds of pressure and 240 degrees F. Process pint glass jars for 30 minutes, quarts for 35 minutes, No. 2 and No. 3 cans for 30 minutes.

Largest Membership In History of P. T. A.

The Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers has a paid-up membership of 45,135 for the year just closed, representing 947 local associations, fifty-eight county councils and seven city councils. This is the largest membership in the history of the organization, showing a net gain of 4,807 over last year's record.

Mrs. B. R. Showalter of Auburn, president of the Alabama Congress, has expressed gratification over the large membership and the fine type of work being done through the local parent-teacher groups. The 974 associations represent 974 organized communities whose prime interest is the welfare of the children of the state and nation. Reports reaching the State PTA office, Montgomery, show that studies have been made on taxation, recreation, legislation, health, and other phases vital to improved community conditions.

The following counties lead in membership: Baldwin, 1,316; Cullman, 1,435; Jefferson (including the city of Birmingham), 11,137; Madison, 1,031; Montgomery, 3,401; Tuscaloosa (city and county), 4,160 and Walker, 1,331.

Dr. Sloan, County Health Officer Warns of Present Malaria Danger

The mosquito breeding season is here again. The principal type of mosquito with which we are concerned is the Anopheles, for this is the carrier of malaria, or chills and fever.

The only way that malaria can be transmitted from person to person is for a mosquito of this variety to bite an infected person and itself become infected. About fourteen days later, it is then apt to give malaria to anyone it bites.

The malarial mosquito breeds principally in ponds and lakes, and also in the grassy edges of streams. Its usual range of flight is about one mile.

Only the female Anopheles carries malaria. It bites most frequently at dusk and at night. Where it is impossible to control mosquito breeding by drainage or oiling or other methods, houses should be well screened.

The ordinary pest variety of mosquito, or Culex, frequently breeds in old tin cans, buckets, rain barrels, or other containers partly filled with water; and in rain gutters which have become clogged with leaves.

This variety does not carry disease but it is a source of a great deal of annoyance. It would be time well spent for each householder to inspect his premises and destroy all old containers which might hold water and offer a favorable breeding place for these pests. Tin cans should have several holes punched in them with an ice pick before being discarded.

It requires about two weeks for the mosquito eggs to hatch, so that water must stand as long as two weeks to be a source of danger.

When a person is unfortunate enough to contract malaria, he should place himself under the care of his physician, as improper or insufficient treatment may result in considerable lost time and ill health ever a long period.

FEED HENS PROPERLY FOR EGG PRODUCTION

Auburn, Ala.—Feed your hens properly if you are to get the best and most economical results, advises John E. Ivey, poultry specialist of the Alabama Extension Service, in calling attention to the need for more feed by the hens if they are to lay eggs through the late spring and summer.

During the summer when the price of eggs is low poultrymen very often make the mistake of becoming discouraged and not feeding the hens enough. It requires 64 pounds of feed to maintain the life of a hen for one year. An 80-egg hen eats 71 pounds and a 200-egg hen approximately 80 pounds of feed. The more feed a hen gets above 64 pounds the less it will require to produce a dozen eggs, according to Mr. Ivey.

MORGAN COUNTY RODEO

The newest addition to the list of fishing contests in Alabama is the Morgan County Game Conservation Club's two-day fishing rodeo for sportsmen of that county and the Tennessee Valley, slated for the two days of June 22-23. Elaborate plans have been made for the event which is expected to attract hundreds of anglers from many sections. Merchants of Decatur, Hartselle and Falkville will offer valuable prizes for record fish in 17 different classifications, with special awards for women. The contest, open to all comers, will start at 1 a.m. on June 22 and close at noon on June 23. A top prize of $25 will head the list for the largest bass. Complete rules were published recently in the Morgan County papers.

Four hundred and fifty thousand dollars of the $538,307 released by Comptroller Lee on May 14, was derived from the sales tax, the gross receipts tax and the tobacco tax. The remainder was from the three-mill ad valorem tax. At the same time $75,000 derived from the sales tax was sent to the counties to be used in public welfare, public health, farm and home extension work.

Fire and poison, plus a network of trenches and dust hills, will be the major weapons of the federal and state government in their fight on the white-fringed or Argentine weevil within a few days when the larvae of the weevils begin to emerge from the ground, says George Harris, entomologist of the State Department of Agriculture.

Second Annual Award of Three Free Scholarships At Birmingham-Southern

Birmingham, Ala.—The second annual award of three scholarships at Birmingham-Southern College, the awards to be based purely on the student ability to do college work, were announced today by Dean Wyatt W. Hale of the institution.

Sponsored this year by the Birmingham-Southern Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, outstanding scholarship fraternity, the awards call for a four, a two and a one years attendance at the school.

When first announced last year the scholarships created widespread interest and competition for them was keen. It was the interest created in the ability tests last year that caused the newly formed chapter to sponsor them this year.

First award will be $800 covering all tuition and incidental fees for four years.

Second award will cover tuition and incidental fees for two years and is valued at $400.

Third award is valued at $200 and covers tuition and incidental fees for one year.

Financial need does not enter into the awards, which are based purely on the student's ability to do college work, as determined from tests of native ability or intelligence, from tests of current affairs, and tests to determine speed and accuracy in reading and understanding the printed page.

In announcing Phi Beta Kappa had sponsored the awards this year, Dean Hale pointed out the fact that the scholarships fill a long felt need in encouraging interest in scholarship and studies.

The Honor Test Day, he said, carries a message to high school teachers, principals and students that their efforts to encourage and bring about real scholarship find tangible recognition.

The tests will be held at Munger Hall on the college campus. All who wish to compete should notify the Scholarship Chairman at Birmingham-Southern College not later than July 29.

On the date of the tests students will be the guests of the college and will be served luncheon, while a limited number of out of town men students can be accommodated free of charge on the nights of August 4 and 5 in the college dormitory. Arrangements for dormitory space must be made in advance.

Birmingham-Southern College, a liberal arts institution, was founded at Greensboro, Ala., in 1856 by the Alabama Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. It is still operated under the supervision of the Alabama and North Alabama Conferences and has received wide recognition as an educational institution with up to date theories and practices.

The college is on the approved list of the Association of American Universities and the American Association of University Women. It is a member of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, the Southern University Conference, the Association of American Colleges, the Association of Urban Universities, the Alabama College Association and the American Council of Education.

The tests will begin at 9:30 a.m. August 5, and are open to every high school student who can qualify for admission to Birmingham-Southern.

"Here at Birmingham-Southern College we believe that almost every other field of student activity except scholarship has found a tangible reward," Dean Hale said.

"In order to give students who score high in their studies a chance to improve themselves, we are setting aside a yearly sum which will be used for scholarship awards.

"We tried the plan last year and found immediate encouragement from educational leaders not only in Alabama but throughout the South. This year we have decided to enlarge our plan and to invite any boy or girl who is a high school graduate and has not had college work to enter. The tests will not be particularly difficult but they will be conclusive tests of the student's ability to do college work," Dean Hale said.

Members of the home demonstration clubs and other homemakers interested in joining in the statewide mattress-making campaign are advised by Helen Johnson, state home demonstration agent, and Nell Pickess, extension home management specialist, to contact their home agents so that plans can be made for giving instruction.

HOME CANNING BULLETIN IS AVAILABLE TO WOMEN

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama women can serve their families a better balanced meal with a more varied diet throughout the year by adopting a canning program, says Miss Lavada Curtis, food preservation specialist of the Alabama Extension Service.

To aid women in an intelligent program of preserving food for the non-growing season, Miss Curtis has recently finished a bulletin which answers many questions confronting the home canner and provides information on budgets, jelly making, vegetable canning, pickling, fruit juices, preserves, numerous recipes, and a host of other subjects with which the home canner comes in contact. It is entitled "Food Preservation."

This bulletin was prepared especially for the home canner and copies can be obtained from the county home demonstration agent or by writing to the Alabama Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

Warning Is Given Against Boll Weevil

Auburn, Ala.—Because of unfavorable weather conditions — too much rainfall in April—the cotton crop generally this year is later than usual. As a rule late cotton crops are likely to be seriously injured by boll weevils and leaf worms, says W. A. Ruffin, entomologist of the Alabama Extension Service.

The U. S. Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine reports boll weevil conditions as "spotted" over the country this year. Large numbers of boll weevils went into hibernation in Alabama last fall, and as the winter was comparatively mild, there are plenty of weevils to produce a heavy infestation by mid-summer if conditions remain favorable for their increase.

There are three general methods of applying poison to cotton plants in the pre-square stage, says Mr. Ruffin. Some growers prefer to mop the small plants with a mixture of 1 pound of calcium arsenate, 1 gallon of water, and 1 gallon of molasses. Others prefer to dust the plants with calcium arsenate, or to apply a liquid mixture with a spray pump. All are effective.

Dusting the cotton with calcium arsenate dust at the rate of 5 pounds per acre, and repeating the applications at 5-day intervals until the weevils are checked, is the method most generally used after the cotton has reached the squaring stage. On light sandy soils, where there is danger of soil injury from heavy dosages of calcium arsenate, a mixture of equal parts of lime and calcium arsenate is recommended.

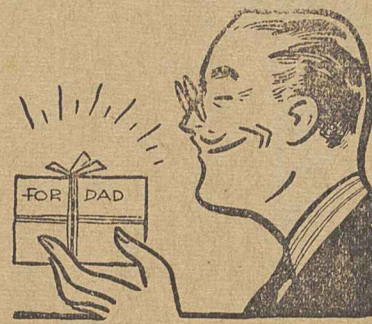

Where both weevil and the hopper must be controlled, Mr. Ruffin recommends a dusting mixture of one part of calcium arsenate and two parts of sulphur.

Alabama's largest sale of motor vehicle licenses was in 1936-37. The number of licenses issued that year was 308,949. The previous high record was in 1928-29 when the total number was 291,834.

This because you are assured in advance that in choosing Alabama College you picked an institution that is as good as the best.

Likewise, you are in a good town where you will find the people friendly, courteous, and appreciative of all things that make for better life and better living.

You who are at Summer School will receive The Montevallo Times every week while you are here. This favor is given you by courtesy of the College Administration. In the paper you will find various news items, bulletins, and announcements of interest to you as a student or teacher in the Summer School. Also, you will no doubt find interest in reading the news about our community, its people, and their activities.

We hope you will enjoy The Times. We are proud to have each and every one of you as our guest-subscribers during the summer months.

ROAD SURFACING

Black top surfacing is now being applied to the highway from Montevallo to Wilton. It will be completed in a few days. This is a short section of State Road No. 25, which, when present plans are carried out, will be paved the complete distance through Shelby County.

CONFIDENCE IS RENEWED

There are yet evidences of integrity and straight thinking in the mind of the populace.

To-wit: The victory of Karl Harrison for State Senator.

When a young man like Karl, with nothing but a good, clean character and honest determination can go into politics and stem the tide of all odds to a successful victory, it proves that people are yet appreciative of the youth who holds promise of able and useful public service.

Karl deserves and will receive congratulations, both from those who supported him and those who opposed him.

IN AND OUT OF TOWN

It's a pleasure to walk down the street and see old faces back among us again even though in some instances it's just for a short while. The ending of school brings home a group of our local boys and girls, both teachers and students.

From Knoxville, Tenn., comes Ed Allen, who has been attending college there. It wouldn't be Ed without Milton. With the finishing of high school it was the parting of the ways for Ed and Milton. The Atlanta Dental College claimed Milton. Back together again, they are spending the summer at home.

Among our former teachers is Mrs. Nellie Moore Ward of Mobile. With the exception of a slight change in name, Nellie is just the same as when we knew her as Nellie Moore.

Mobile claimed another of our girls. Miss Sue Peters (by the way, we are wondering why the far-away starry look in your eyes, Toots) is here for all too short a time.

From far away New Jersey comes one of our recent brides for her first visit back home after her marriage. Don't make it so long between visits next time, Floyce. To greet Floyce were her two sisters, Mrs. Leo Jelin of New York, and Melba, who is home from Europe. Clay also made his appearance from Georgia Tech in Atlanta. A happy reunion it was at the Griffin home.

Friends were greeting and welcoming Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Latham of Miami, Florida, Tuesday.

A NEW STYLE OF KIDNAPING

A new style of kidnaping was introduced in Chilton County Tuesday when four prominent citizens, unmasked and fully identified, walked into the voting place at the courthouse in Clanton, took possession of the absentee ballot box of Tuesday's Democratic Primary, and spirited it away to parts unknown. It was said that the box contained over 700 supposed-to-be absentee ballots. According to records, it is said there could not be over 300 legal absentee ballots in Chilton County.

Heat of Chilton County's interest in Tuesday's primary centered in the race between J. R. Hardy and Tom McKee for Tax Collector and Karl Harrison and J. A. Hines for State Senator.

It had been freely predicted by political gossip that certain candidates would win on the absentee ballots.

Chilton County has been seething with charges and counter charges of absentee ballot corruption since the May 3 primary.

The Legislature of Alabama ought to do just what those four citizens of Clanton did Tuesday—only on a larger scale. They should walk in openly and lawfully seize the absentee ballot law of the state and throw it into the garbage can where properly belongs everything that is so conducive to rottenness and offensive practices.

We congratulate the ballot kidnapers of Clanton.

Dr. Bradford Knapp, former president of Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, died in Lubbock, Texas, last Saturday. Dr. Knapp was one of America's outstanding figures in agricultural education.

Mrs. Virginia McDuffie, age 78, died at her home in Monroe County Sunday. She was the mother of Hon. John McDuffie, federal judge at Mobile, former Alabama Congressman; and of Mrs. Chas. R. Bricken, wife of Judge Bricken of the Alabama Court of Appeals. Mrs. Pete Jarman is her granddaughter.

The United States is now exporting over 300 times as much corn and over 8,000 times as much wheat as it is importing, according to figures just received from Washington by A. W. Jones.

Montevallo Won Two From Centerville Team

Montevallo's baseball team, piloted by skipper Mack Vincent, started the season off with a bang last week. They defeated Centerville here Saturday, and went to Centerville Sunday to repeat the performance with more emphasis on the Montevallo playing end.

With a line-up composed almost completely of high school and former high school boys, Montevallo won Saturday's engagement by a score of 11 to 1. Behind the excellent pitching of Waymond Bowdon, the Montevallo boys slugged Centerville's pitching for 16 hits, out of which they made 11 runs. Ambrose led Montevallo's attack with 3 singles and a double. He was closely followed in hitting honors by J. Winslett with 3 hits; Lee with two hits, one of which was a triple with the bases full; and Bowdon and T. Winslett with two hits each.

Sunday's game at Centerville was a much better contest. Although Comer, pitching for Montevallo, allowed only two hits, Centerville was able to make two runs out of it. Ed Pratt, pitching for Centerville, held Montevallo to two runs for six innings before the home team broke loose for four runs to make the final score 6 to 2.

Besides doing excellent pitching, Comer came up with three clean singles to share batting honors with Lee, who had two singles and a triple.

Montevallo's young team showed plenty of hustle in both games, as well as a good scrapping spirit in coming from behind to win the Sunday game. Good defensive play and prudent catching by "Chicken" Fullman, were characterized in both games. A team evidencing the pep and enthusiasm shown by our boys in starting their season deserves and should have the support of every person in Montevallo.

Boothton comes here for a game with Montevallo this afternoon (Thursday) and Marvel will be here to give the boys a scrap Saturday. Let's go, fans.

FARMERS RETIRE EROSION-PRONE LAND TO HAY AND PASTURE

Auburn, Ala.—Cooperating farmers on 2,400 farms in erosion-control areas in Alabama are shifting more than 31,000 acres of their most erodible land to permanent hay, pasture, and woodland, a report compiled by the Soil Conservation Service shows.

While the bulk of this acreage was previously classed as cultivated land, the net reduction in cultivated crops amounts to only 33,000 acres. This is owing to the fact that other land on these farms that can safely be cultivated is being brought into crop production and is taking the place of a part of the erodible crop land which is being converted to other uses.

The average cooperating farmer had approximately 96 acres of cultivated land to begin with. Under the erosion control program he is reducing his crop land a net amount of 14 acres and, with other land retired to these uses, is increasing his permanent hay by 5 acres, pasture by 2 acres, and woodland by 10 acres.

With steep and severely eroded land retired from crop production, and with good rotations and other sound conservation farming practices established, increased yields per acre and a better balanced farm program will result, according to state soil conservation officials.

John E. Ivey, extension poultry specialist, says that poultrymen should produce only infertile eggs from May to October, since fertile eggs will become stale and unsuitable for eating purposes at least three times quicker than infertile ones during hot weather.

He Never Bites A Dog...

(But Dogs Are Not Always So Considerate)

"SOME dogs are like some people. The more friendly you are with them and the more you try to please them, the more likely they are to bite you. At least, that's what our meter readers tell me. Of course, such persons are the exceptions.

"The Fido in this picture is not one of the surly kind and his master is just as pleased as he when the meter reader comes around, because he knows that he will get a bill surprisingly low for the amount of electricity he uses.

"I have never heard of one of my Company's meter readers biting a dog, even if the dog were vicious.

While a customer who doesn't appreciate just how cheap electricity really is in Alabama, may growl occasionally, the meter reader doesn't growl back; he just smiles and says, 'Well, friend, if you would just use more of it, you would learn how cheap it really is'.

"The next time he comes around to your house, let him tell you more about it."

Piper Mine Fire Is Under Control

Piper, Ala., June 13—Fire which had raged for four days in underground passages of a coal mine near here was brought under control Monday by a crew of 15 mine workers, mine officials reported.

Although workers had completed sealing corridors with concrete to choke out the fire, William Hillhouse, state chief mining inspector, said danger of an explosion had not been entirely averted.

One of the crew, Birler Pierce, 27, was overcome Sunday night by carbon monoxide gas, but was reported recovering Monday. Crews of 15 have been working on seven-hour shifts since Friday night in efforts to control the blaze which was a constant source of danger as a possible cause of an explosion.

It was the largest fire that ever occurred in the No. 2 mine of the Little Cahaba Coal Company in its many years of operation, officials reported. In 1914, they said, eight or 10 men were killed in an explosion in the mine, which reaches back as far as two miles in some places.

Officials expected the 300 employees to resume work Tuesday.

Hillhouse said the explosion last Friday night at the Boothton mine several miles northeast of here definitely was caused by methane gas set off by a spark from mining machinery or by a blasting charge. "Had it been a coal dust explosion," he said, "it would have been much more serious."

Several hundred outstanding high school girl graduates from all parts of Alabama are meeting at Alabama College this week, June 22-24, for the fifth annual Student Career Conference at which they are given help in determining what their life work will be.

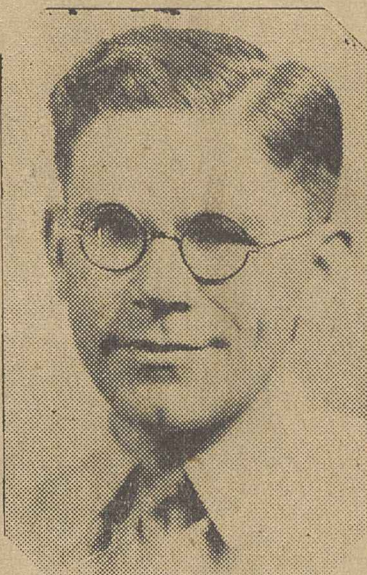

At each of the three general meetings of the conference the subject will be some phase of the subject "Women Who Work." What will adequate training cost in time and money? Originated in 1934, the Student Career Conference has, by testing abilities and personalities, helped hundreds of Alabama girls find the job for which they are best suited.

In addition to taking vocational tests, the girls are entertained at receptions, picnics, and outdoor sports. Mrs. Margaret Coyle of the College faculty is chairman of the 1938 conference.

Legion-Auxiliary Elects Officers

Joint Meeting Held At Gravlee's Farm For Social And Business Session

The meeting of the Hendrick-Hudson Post of the American Legion and the Auxiliary Unit held last Thursday night at the Gravlee Dairy Farm was a most delightful occasion.

When all the attendants had assembled with warm personal greetings from Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gravlee upon arrival, the combined membership of the Legion and Auxiliary gathered on the lawn to witness a play which had been arranged for the occasion by Mrs. Glennie Nybeck. It was a one-act performance by a group of girls portraying the objectives and purposes of Fidac in promoting the cause of world peace. Expressions of thanks to Mrs. Nybeck and her players were made on behalf of the Legion and the Auxiliary.

After the Fidac play the group divided for the business session of the Legion and the Auxiliary. Each group chose a convenient place on the spacious and lovely lawn to hold its deliberations.

The principal business was the election of officers for the next year.

For the Auxiliary, the following elections were made: Mrs. J. L. Appleton, president; Mrs. P. D. Pendleton, first vice president; Mrs. Lena Duran, second vice president; Mrs. Robert Holcomb, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. A. E. Baumgartner, historian; Mrs. Fred Frost, chaplain. Delegates were elected to the State Department convention in Montgomery.

For the Legion Post the following elections were made: Commander, W. M. Wyatt; Adjutant, R. P. Holcomb; Vice commander, W. L. Gravlee; Finance officer, Fred Frost; Chaplain, J. L. Appleton; Historian, W. R. Adkins; Sergeant at arms, L. D. Gilbert.

It was the occasion for the annual inspection of the Post by a representative of the State Department. This function was carried out by Comrade Hosea F. Downs, of Clanton. Mr. Downs was accompanied on his official visit to the Post by Mrs. Downs, who was a guest of the Auxiliary.

After the business meetings had been concluded the members of the Legion and Auxiliary re-assembled at an appointed place on the lawn for the picnic lunch. This important part of the program had been provided by the ladies of the Auxiliary, and it proved to be fully as delightful as the highest hopes of the fellow with the biggest appetite. In this contest L. D. Gilbert was the winner by a close margin over W. R. Adkins.

Appropriate resolutions were prepared expressing the thanks of the Legion and Auxiliary to Mr. and Mrs. Gravlee for the most gracious manner in which they provided for the comfort and pleasure of everyone who attended.

Josh Wyatt, Mrs. Ludie Brown, Grady, Carl, and Tip Wyatt, and Mrs. Mazie Sutton.

His second wife was Georgie Thomas, who, with the following children, survives: Herbert, Jack, Paul and Mattie Edna Wyatt.

Seven sons and one grandson of the deceased were pallbearers. The flowers were carried by his granddaughters.

MYSTERIOUS CHILTON

Dean Napier found on his desk Saturday morning a box of the finest quality peaches. A card accompanying the package read "Chilton County Republican Peaches."

Upon inquiry of his secretary, she made the explanation that they were left by a summer school student.

"Who brought those lovely peaches is as mysterious to me as the whereabouts of the absentee ballot box in Chilton County," said the Dean.

"They are peaches all right, and I am taking them home to get the diagnosis of Mrs. Napier. I expect, however, that we will mutually and unanimously conclude to risk eating them, even if they are labeled Republican. I know good peaches when I see them, and I will not let any political label fool me. Anyway, they say it is hard to tell a Democrat from a Republican in Chilton County, and that may apply to their peaches also."

FISHERIES SOCIETY MEETS

Fish and game experts from three nations on the North American continent converged on Ashville, N. C. this week for the annual joint meeting of the American Fisheries Society and the International Association of Game, Fish and Conservation Commissioners June 20-24 inclusive. Quinn, head of the State Conservation Department, is president of the American Fisheries Society. He will preside at the sessions and deliver the president's address. This group represents the leading thought and research on food and game fishes of Canada, the United States and Mexico. Commissioner Quinn was honored with the presidency last year at the Mexico City convention.

Alabama needs a more uniform system of grading hogs, since the low cost of producing pork on peanuts and the unlimited market for hogs makes the peanut-hog combination profitable for the Alabama farmer, says the farm products marketing committee of the State Chamber of Commerce, adding that more careful grading and packing of all farm products is necessary to bring the best market prices to Alabama farmers.

Mrs. Albert Ellison and sons of Birmingham were the week-end guests of Mrs. Susie B. Williams.

Mrs. G. H. Mooney spent Sunday with her daughter, Mrs. Ellis Taley.

"Josette!" She's Got Zis and Zat! Gay Comedy Stars Delightful Trio Sunday and Monday at the Strand

Oo-lo-la! Robert Young, Simone Simon and Don Ameche (top, left to right)—three delightful stars in 20th Century-Fox's "Josette," the sauciest escapade in the History of Love. And what's sauce for them is sauce or those gooses, Bert Lahr and Joan Davis (lower right).

Robert Young, Don Ameche And
Simone Simon in 20th Century-
Fox Picture

It's vive l'amour in naughty New Orleans!

It's vive Don Ameche! vive Simone Simon! and vive Robert Young!

For that matter it's vive "Josette" in Montevallo as long as the Strand Theatre runs this oo-la-laughingest love escapade by 20th Century-Fox.

This spicy, tantalizing story is gayer than a Mardi Gras, with these three delightful stars. Don is more romantic than you've known him on screen or radio. Simone is the tantalizing little French coquette. She's got zis! And she's got zat! And Bob is the ardent swain who won't take no for an answer—not even in French!

It all starts gaily on its way when Don and Bob decide that their Papa is too ardently cherchez la femme—Josette. The fact that Simone is innocent of all guile as regards Papa—and that there is another woman in the case—only adds to the merry madness. For Don and Bob pack Papa off on a trip and decide to take Josette into their own hands. . . . or arms, as it later develops.

The denouement can not be divulged here, but let it be said that "Josette," merry with its Gordon and Revel songs, has the kick of a sazarac cocktail!

Three new song hits by Hollywood's ace tunesmiths are featured in the musical background of the film. These, which already are crowding the kilocycles, are "May I Drop A Petal In Your Glass of Wine?" "In Any Language" and "Where in the World."

Bert Lahr and Joan Davis, sensational new comedy team first seen in "Love and Hisses," head the featured cast of "Josette."

The film is Joan Davis's first since she was voted No. 1 comedienne in a New York daily's nationwide fan poll.

BASEBALL

Montevallo and Boothton rode the see-saw (not the flying jenny) in their game here last Thursday afternoon, but the plank finally settled down with Montevallo on the heavy end by the score of 7 to 6.

It was in the last half of the ninth inning that Tom Winslett singled to score Lee with the winning run.

Both teams used three pitchers in trying to curb the other. Lee led Montevallo in hitting, with four for four, while C. Dement and Raybon had two each for Boothton.

On the Ship He Would Be the Look-Out

"If YOU could travel with me around the electrical system of my Company, you'd be surprised at how many people you would find on duty at all hours, to see that your electric service remains as constant as it is humanly possible to make it.

"You would find the work of the operators at the substations and power plants particularly interesting. While they might not appear to be working, all of their senses are attuned to the delicate but precise instruments about them, which signal the slightest variation from normal in your electrical service.

"The operators must be on the job every minute of their duty periods. You would get a big thrill if you saw them when there is a serious weather disturbance, because then you would see the automatic signal lights rapidly blinking on and off; you would see the operator hurrying from switchboard to switchboard promptly and accurately getting the service back to normal again.

"You, sitting in your cozy chair, are seldom aware of the thousands of Alabama Power Company employees who, in the performance of their duties, make it possible for you to enjoy cheap, dependable electric service."

— REDDY KILOWATT.

School Administrators Conference Held At Peabody College

Nashville, Tenn.—The ninth annual School Administrators Conference, at Peabody College June 9, 10, and 11, brought together more than one thousand educators from every southern state and other sections. Centering around the educational implications of the socioeconomic problems confronting southern regions, the talks of approximately eighty school officials were illuminating and timely. These addresses were summarized by Dr. George D. Strayer, Jr., of the Peabody Administration Department, at the closing meeting.

Dr. William H. Johnson, of Chicago, dealt with the national aspects of these problems in discussing the subject, "As Seen by a Superintendent from Outside the South." He pointed out the justification for equalization of financial burdens as applied to education. Harry W. Peters, state superintendent of public instruction in Kentucky, in another major address emphasized the need of curriculum revision in order that the school might meet its responsibility in training youth for modern service.

Superintendent Ben L. Smith, of Greensboro, North Carolina, pointed out three crucial problems faced by the South, stating that education could serve greatly in meeting them. These were low and inequitable financial ability; disproportionately large educational task in the region and need of greater changes than in the past. He added that three trends promise aid: a broadened base of support, an extended scope of service, and an enriched stock of course offerings.

A selected group of superintendents gave brief responses, followed by general discussion, at each session. They considered such factors as standard of living in the South, rural and urban social problems, adult education as a movement, federal and state aid for education, and assurance of the preservation of the ideals of democracy. J. Harold Saxon, University High School Inspector at the University of Georgia, cited the Georgia program of meeting these problems of living: maintaining physical, mental, emotional health; earning a living; meeting responsibilities of citizenship; controlling the natural environment; expressing the aesthetic and spiritual impulses; and utilizing education to transmit the social heritage. This program devised to combat such issues, was organized by the Georgia Department of Education and the State University System.

Superintendent W. R. Ooley, of Wynne, Ark., said that the basic educational program of the South today is to train the great mass of its people to be economically self-supporting. In proposing means of accomplishing this, the part of education was shown by a number of speakers and constructive plans were envisioned and explained. Among these was a program of community planning, with the school as the center of it.

Superintendent W. O. Inman, of Paris, Tenn., said in a summary statement that the socio-economic problems of the South revolve around three main factors: an abundance of resources; a deficiency in science, skills, organization, and management; and unnecessary waste in both human and natural resources. It was such challenging indications of the south's need and lack that brought forth several stirring discussions at the conclusion of the meetings.

Other major addresses were delivered by President S. C. Garrison, of Peabody College; Mr. Frank Ahlgren, editor of the Memphis Commercial Appeal; and Dr. J. M. Smith, Commissioner of Education in Tennessee.

MERCY ASKED FOR KIDNAPER OF CASH CHILD

Tallahassee, Fla., June 21—Franklin Pierce McCall, speaking through an attorney, will ask the State Pardon Board to commute to life imprisonment the death sentence imposed after he confessed he kidnapped five-year-old Jimmy Cash, of Princeton, Fla., for $10,000 ransom.

C. A. Averiett, attorney retained by McCall's relatives at Jasper, Fla., his hometown, will present the plea to the board.

Governor Fred P. Cone and at least two other members of the board must approve all grants of clemency.

In Jacksonville the Journal published an interview with McCall in which the 21-year-old confessed kidnaper was quoted as saying he did not expect to be saved from electric chair, only 50 feet from his "death row" cell at Raiford State Prison. Averiett arranged for the interview.

McCall was quoted as saying he saw no reason why the pardon board should commute his death sentence to life imprisonment since "there are no mitigating circumstances," McCall added. The Journal said, "the way it turned out I guess whatever they do to me is fair."

McCall asserted he had no intention of killing Jimmy with whom he used to play in the Cash home where he and his wife once rented a room. All he wanted, he asserted, was the $10,000 ransom money.

The account stated McCall said he wanted to return the $10,000 to the victim's father, James Bailey Cash, five minutes after the money had been tossed to the roadside just at dawn two days after the child was kidnapped and killed.

If the state pardon board denies McCall clemency, Governor Cone will sign the death warrant and name the week for the execution.—Montgomery Advertiser.

In the Circuit Court of Shelby County Wednesday Varnett Dean, Negro, charged with first degree murder in the killing of John Wesley Nabors, nightwatchman, of Alabaster, was found guilty by the jury and sentenced to life imprisonment in the penitentiary.

In prosecution of the case the State was represented by Circuit Solicitor A. L. Hardegree, and County Solicitor, Paul O. Luck.

The defense attorneys, appointed by Judge Wallace, were Karl Harrison and Frank Head.

The trial was concluded about three o'clock Wednesday afternoon, and within an hour the jury returned its verdict to the court, declaring the negro guilty, and imposing the life sentence.

The jury was selected late Wednesday afternoon from a venire of about eighty men, including the regular jury of the circuit court, and a special jury summoned for the case.

Trial of the case will begin when court is called by Judge Wallace at 8:30 Thursday morning. Leading counsel for Heath is attorney Handy Ellis. The State will present its prosecution through Solicitors Hardegree and Luck.

Chilton Box Brings Party Headache

Committee Will Decide What Is To Be Done About Missing Absentee Votes

What to do about Chilton County's missing absentee votes will be decided Friday at a meeting of the County Democratic Committee.

This decision was the only one announced after a meeting Tuesday of a sub-committee of the state executive committee with E. N. Bentley, vice-chairman and Billy Smith, secretary, of the Chilton committee.

The subcommittee was composed of John D. McQueen, chairman of the state committee, Silas D. Cater, Montgomery; B. F. Head, Tuscaloosa, and Walter Lusk, Guntersville.

Bentley said recommendations of the state subcommittee would not be announced until after the meeting of the Chilton County group.

Chilton's absentee box, containing 741 votes, was seized by a group of five men at the Chilton courthouse at Clanton shortly after noon June 14, election day.

The box and its votes have been missing since. No arrests have been made. Sheriff J. R. Hardy, on returns from all but the absentee box was elected tax collector by 32 votes over Tom McKee, incumbent. McKee said he would file a contest if Hardy is certified as the winning candidate.

Spot Jones-Williams and Johnnie Hardy were spectators at the Circuit Court in Columbiana Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Beatrice Fancher was a visitor in Columbiana Wednesday.

DEMONSTRATION CLUBS PLAN BARBECUE FOR JULY

Miss Bess Barker, Home agent of Macon County, gave a demonstration on barbecuing chicken for the home demonstration clubs of Shelby County on June 15 in Columbiana. The meeting opened at the high school with Miss Barker discussing barbecuing methods with the local club leaders. Plans were made for each club to have a chicken barbecue for its members during the month of July in place of the annual picnic. A program for recreation to include all the members of the family was made. Following the preliminary discussion the group gathered at Mrs. Homer Walton's out-door living room where the chickens were barbecued. The leaders spread a picnic lunch to serve with the chickens which was the main feature of the meal. About 25 leaders and visitors were present. Guests included Miss Harriet Plowden, Home Agent of Talladega County, Miss Martha Barkley, Talladega, and Mrs. Homer Walton.

Maywood Installs New Equipment

Modern Machine Pasteurizes And Bottles Milk, Thus Insuring Purity

Absolute, positive and continuing guarantee of purity in milk used by his consumers is now provided by Mr. W. L. Gravlee, of Maywood Dairy, by the installation of a "Purity Positive Pasteurizer." This new and modern machine was installed in the bottling plant at the dairy this week, and beginning tomorrow, July 1, the milk you get from Maywood will be a product of this improved, scientific process.

Proper pasteurizing is recognized as one of the greatest blessings to mankind, especially in the field of milk consumption. It arrests bacterial growth; makes milk safe to use; controls its flavor; and decidedly reduces loss from spoilage.

Pasteurization has come to be generally recognized as one of the greatest safeguards to public health. Since its introduction in many large cities, no serious epidemics have been traced to milk supply. It has brought a constant decrease in such milk-borne diseases as typhoid, scarlet fever, and diphtheria.

Milk consumers, with the absolute safety of pasteurization, should bear in mind that the process adopted and used by Maywood, does not change the flavor of good milk, but preserves its natural raw taste—and adds many hours to its keeping qualities.

Mr. Gravlee pointed out to the writer the entire pasteurization process, which is very simple. It consists of heating the milk by steam quickly to pasteurizing temperature (142 to 145 degrees) and holding it at that temperature for 30 minutes. The milk is then cooled as quickly as possible to 40 degrees, bottled and stored. This process absolutely guarantees elimination of all kinds of disease and other bacteria from the milk.

A most impressive fact is that when the milk enters the pasteurizing machine it does not see daylight again until it has passed through the steam heating compartment, the automatic cooler and enters the perfectly clean, sterilized bottle, and is sealed. All parts of the pasteurizer, cooler, and bottler, with which the milk comes in contact are of the finest stainless steel.

Mr. Gravlee protects his milk consumers in every step and process of his business. His cows are as free of disease as is possible. Every one of his herd has passed from six to twelve tests by state and federal inspectors. Maywood milk is clean and pure when taken from the cows, it is kept clean in handling, it is further purified by pasteurization. It comes to the consumer with every modern safeguard.

"I have incurred much expense to give my milk users these modern scientific advantages," said Mr. Gravlee. "On July 1, our milk will come to you thoroughly pasteurized by one of the finest machines of this kind. I am glad to have my customers in the future to join me in the satisfaction that Maywood milk is as safe and as pure and as good as milk can possibly be produced."

In announcing that this novelty feature had been added to the Farmers Week program, P. O. Davis, director, Alabama Extension Service, requested that all county contests be held in the near future and names of the county winners be sent his office by July 20.

Luncheon clubs and other organizations in a number of counties will sponsor the local contests. Several other clubs are planning to offer a free trip to the Auburn meeting as county prizes.

NEW DUSTING MIXTURE KILLS COTTON INSECTS

Auburn, Ala.—Cotton insect specialists of the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine of the U. S. Department of Agriculture announced that it is possible to control both the boll weevil and the flea hopper at the same time by dusting with a mixture of sulphur and calcium arsenate, says W. A. Ruffin, extension entomologist.

As a rule, growers in areas troubled with both the weevil and the flea hopper have dusted with calcium arsenate to kill the weevil and then made separate dustings with sulphur to kill the flea hoppers, said Mr. Ruffin.

The Bureau of Entomology specialists conducted experiments at Fort Lavaca, Texas, for three years, and state that results of the work apply to all parts of the cotton belt where both the hopper and the weevil cause heavy damage.

The experiments showed that dusting with the mixture not only gives as good results as the separate dustings, but under some conditions even better results.

The Department's insect specialists recommend a mixture including one part of calcium arsenate and two parts of sulphur. In other words, a hundred pounds of calcium arsenate to 200 pounds of sulphur, said Mr. Ruffin. They recommended 12 to 15 pounds of the mixture to the acre.

During the experiments it was found that it was necessary to make two to four applications of the mixture at intervals of five to seven days to obtain the best results.

4-H Members To Help Hunt Insect Pest

Auburn, Ala.—An army of amateur bug hunters will take the field throughout Alabama next week for the biggest insect hunt in the state's history as machinery gets in motion to determine the progress of the white-fringed beetle, which has been found in Covington and Geneva Counties.

The thousands of Alabama 4-H club boys and girls have been enlisted by F. E. Guyton, state inspection director, white fringed beetle control, to help in the search for the insect. All "suspicious" looking bugs found by the clubsters will be placed in boxes, shipped to the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine at Gulfport, Miss., and identified there.

(But Simple If You Understand It)

THERE are a number of similar maps in the numerous Alabama Power Company substations. They represent the wireways over which I must travel to reach your home so I may furnish you with cheap, dependable electric service. They are watched by a dispatcher who immediately learns, either through automatic signals or telephone calls, when one of these electrical wireways becomes blocked, or goes out because of a storm or other trouble. When that happens, he immediately detours me around the scene of trouble. Sometimes I have to travel over half the State to reach you, but that does not bother me much because I travel at the rate of 186,000 miles a second!

"Of course, this map and the dispatcher's job look complicated to you, but to him both are as simple as 'a-b-c.'"

"But that doesn't mean that he doesn't take his job seriously. He does, and is as dependable as the fine, cheap electric service you get."

Stevenson's "Kidnapped" Comes Lavishly To Screen At The Strand July 3-4

"Kidnapped," the story which Robert Louis Stevenson is said to have considered his best, comes to Montevallo spectacularly produced by Darryl F. Zanuck, with a cast of 5,000, and pretty much of the pick of 20th Century-Fox's "hit-making experts."

Unlike several other Stevenson stories, "Kidnapped" never before has appeared in either silent or sound films—something of a record. In its debut Sunday, however, the stars, director and supporting cast appear to have been assembled with a lavish hand for the patrons of the Strand Theatre.

Every person conversant with so much as high school English has thrilled to the adventure in "Kidnapped," so the picture is destined to meet a host of familiar friends.

It will be these "friends" who will remember that the story had little or no "feminine interest"—being chiefly the tale of the escapades of Alan Breck and David Balfour (portrayed on the screen by Warner Baxter and Freddie Bartholomew).

Purists may try, therefore, to quarrel with Hollywood's introduction into the story of a Jean MacDonald, highland lass who becomes enamored of Alan Breck. The role is portrayed by an astonishingly vivacious and beautiful screen discovery, Arleen Whelan.

"This is no furniture for a scholar's library, but a triumphant piece of motion picture entertainment, lavishly done."

The stellar cast of "Kidnapped" includes C. Aubrey Smith, Reginald Owen, John Carradine, Nigel Bruce, Miles Mander, Ralph Forbes and H. B. Warner.

Mr. Joe Katz spent the week-end in Birmingham.

This week Yeager Studio has selected Robert Reynolds Simpson's picture for their display case next to Montevallo Drug Co.

Mr. Ed Allen has returned to Knoxville, Tenn., where he will continue his studies.

Louis-Schmeling Bout To Be Shown Saturday

Auburn, Ala.—Due to weather conditions and other factors many Alabama farmers have not planted enough feed crops to properly feed their stock next winter, states W. H. Gregory, associate extension agronomist, in advising that there is still ample time in which to grow sufficient winter feed.

It should be remembered that to adequately feed a cow or a mule about two tons of hay in addition to grain is needed, says Mr. Gregory. Sudan grass will make a larger amount of hay quicker than any other crop on good land. On land which is sown in this hay-producer one to two tons of feed per acre can be grown in 60 days. Mr. Gregory suggested that after the grass comes up it should be top-dressed with 100 to 200 pounds of nitrate of soda per acre. He says about 25 pounds of seed should be planted to the acre.

Sorghum is another crop that will produce a large tonnage of grass hay even when planted this late, states Mr. Gregory. Amber and orange are two of the best varieties that may be planted. From one to two pecks of sorghum should be planted to the acre in order to keep the stalks from being too large. Disc the seed in and top-dress with 100 to 200 pounds of nitrate of soda per acre after the crop is up, he advises.

A third crop which will produce grass hay is pearl or cattail millet, which should be sown at about the same rate as sorghum. Other varieties of millet do not make a large tonnage.

Cowpeas is the only legume crop that may safely be recommended for sowing this late for hay production, says Mr. Gregory. However, on some of the better soils of the state soybeans will make considerable hay. Gregory states that a mixture of cowpeas and either sorghum or Sudan grass sown together will make a large tonnage of hay on good land, and the hay will be more nutritious than the sorghum or grass planted alone.

In recent years, the plan of immunizing young pigs against hog cholera instead of waiting until the animals are older has gained favor. Immunizing the pig before weaning time has definite advantages.

DOVE BANDING RESULTS

Nearly 2,000 mourning doves have been banded in the past two years by the cooperative wildlife research project workers at Auburn, and interesting returns have been received this year. Doves banded at Auburn have been taken in Missouri, Florida, South Carolina and several other states. Dove nesting started relatively early this year in Alabama, the research workers reported, being in full progress the latter part of May. The cooperative project is sponsored by the State Conservation Department, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, the U. S. Bureau of Biological Survey and the American Wildlife Institute. Dr. A. M. Pearson, of Auburn, is leader.

AGREEMENT RENEWED

The State of Alabama, through the Department of Conservation of Game, Fish and Seafoods, recently approved renewal for an additional year an agreement between State and Federal agencies for establishment of refuges for migratory waterfowl and other wildlife in the Tennessee Valley. Commissioner I. T. Quinn, representing the state department, approved continuation of the agreement between TVA, U. S. Bureau of Biological Survey, the States of Tennessee and Alabama.

QUAIL HATCHED

By July 1 there will be a total of 5,826 young quail hatched at the state game farm in Autauga County. The largest hatch of the season—2,800 birds—was due out of the incubators June 28, and prior to that time 3,026 birds had been hatched. Eggs collected this spring total 9,706 through June 18, and approximately 1,400 more to be collected June 25, for the total of 11,106. The weekly average of eggs collected has been over 1,000, all laid by 350 Bob White hens.

According to figures recently released by an automobile insurance company there were 40,300 people killed in the United States in automobile accidents during the year 1937. The largest number were pedestrians who were struck by automobiles, the number being 17,410. The next largest number was where two or more automobiles were involved, the number in this list being 10,600. Collisions with fixed objects such as telephone poles, trees, guard rails etc., were responsible for 4,560 deaths, while collisions with trains accounted for 1730. More than 42 per cent of these people were killed between six o'clock in the afternoon and midnight and nearly 18 per cent were killed between midnight and six o'clock in the morning. The largest number who were killed in one hour of the day was between 7 and 8 o'clock P. M.

There are almost ten times as many motor vehicles in operation in Alabama as there were twenty years ago. The increase during the past ten years was only a little more than 20 per cent. The largest registration up to 1937 was in 1929 when the total number registered was 291,834. The number registered during the past fiscal year was 308,849 and the amount collected for license plates was $3,549,513. Prior to this the high mark was reached in 1930 when the amount collected was $2,953,325.

Farmers in erosion-control demonstration areas in Alabama who at first considered strip cropping an awkward method of farming are finding in practice that it simplifies many of their farming problems, according to O. C. Medlock, state coordinator of the Soil Conservation Service.

Use of cotton bagging as a covering for 16,000 bales of cotton was among the projects sponsored during the past year in connection with the cotton diversion program for encouragement and development of new uses for cotton. A. W. Jones, AAA administrative officer in Alabama, has announced.

Burglary at night is a capital offense in Alabama, and the culprit may be sentenced to the electric chair.
